ADRIANA CUT

BEFORE

1. Section the hair from the temples on both sides into a round horseshoe shape under the crown area.

2. Start the haircut in the side area. Using a clipper-over-comb technique, cut shorter to longer following the curve of the head shape to create graduation. Repeat the same method throughout the opposite side.

3. At the base of the hairline create a short outside line by using a flexible thin comb. Continue the clipper-over-comb technique through the nape and back area.

4. Release the top section and cut using a square layer technique. Project the hair up to a 90-degree elevation and cut straight across with your finger angle parallel to the section. Continue through the top using a traveling guideline.

5. Through the fringe area, comb the hair down into its natural falling position. Then hold the hair using your comb as a guide and cut a solid line with your scissors resting against the comb.

6. Blow-dry the hair using Design Foam and a wrap technique into its natural falling position. On dry hair, refine the haircut and personalize where needed. To finish the look use Taffy and Keratin Healing Oil Lustrous Finishing Spray.

DENA CUT

1. Section the top area into a horseshoe shape from the temples through to the crown. Next, take a vertical section on top of the ears and separate the back from the sides.

2. Begin by cutting the length first. Comb the hair down into its natural falling position and cut a solid one-length line. Use your comb to hold the hair into place with minimal tension.

3. Release the back section. Using horizontal partings project the hair upward and over-direct the hair forward and cut a square line across.

4. Proceed to the top section and divide this area into 3 sub-sections. Beginning at the front project forward using low elevation and cut.

5. Continue the layering method by increasing the elevation as you progress back.

6. Blow-dry the hair using a cocktail of Foundation Mousse and Smoother Straightening Balm for support, volume and smoothness. Once dry, check the outside perimeter line and texturize the layering if needed.

MELANY CUT

BEFORE

1. Divide the hair in 5 sections as shown. Top section from the temples to the turning point on the top of the head. Side sections vertically to the back of the ear. Back section horizontally across from the occipital bone to the top of the ear.

2. Begin in the back nape area and cut your perimeter line. Comb the hair down into its natural falling position and cut a solid line. Use a comb control technique resting your scissors against the comb for minimal tension on curly hair.

3. Next, begin the layering method. Using vertical sections project the hair to 45-degree elevation above the horizontal line. Follow your guideline throughout this nape area, working with a traveling guide.

4. Next work through the back and side sections. Using vertical sections and the same elevation use over-direction. Therefore each section is brought back to a stationary guide to create length through the sides.

5. Release the top area and begin with a section through the center. Using the completed back as your guide, over-direct the top to the crown cutting from shorter to longer to retain length in the front.

6. Dry the hair into its natural curl using a blow-dryer with a diffuser and use Curl Define Cream for extra curl support and definition.
